AOL MUSIC PARTNERS WITH METROLYRICS.COM TO PROVIDE SONG LYRICS ACROSS ITS MUSIC PROPERTIES

Strategic Partnership with Top Lyrics Destination Worldwide Gives AOL Music Users Direct Access to the Most Robust Lyrics Site

VANCOUVER, British Columbia—April 16, 2009—AOL Music, <http://music.aol.com>, has entered into a strategic relationship with MetroLeap Media, operators of MetroLyrics, <http://www.metrolyrics.com>, whereby the world's top lyrics site¹ will provide song lyrics for AOL Music and its related properties. The deal gives AOL Music users the most complete and compelling service for accessing and enjoying song lyrics, and provides MetroLyrics with potentially millions of new users via AOL Music, <http://music.aol.com>, the number one online music destination².

As an integrated content partner, MetroLyrics will provide song lyrics via a “Lyrics” link to MetroLyrics.com for AOL Music and its network of sites, which include TheBoot.com, <http://www.theboot.com>, The BoomBox.com, <http://www.theboombox.com>, Spinner.com, <http://www.spinner.com>, TourTracker.com, <http://www.tourtracker.com>, and NoiseCreep.com, <http://www.noisecreep.com>. Music fans will also have the ability to access artist-specific lyrics pages from the navigation bars within the AOL Music properties. For example, when watching AOL Sessions performances, customers can click the “Lyrics” link and be directed to MetroLyrics.com to see the lyrics for those songs.

“AOL Music believes in aggregating sites and services whose sum can be even greater than the individual parts, and the result is an unsurpassed entertainment experience for consumers,” said Bill Crandall, vice president of AOL Music. “By integrating MetroLyrics into our properties, we can continue to focus on building out our music content and services for our consumers. We’re excited to bring MetroLyrics into the AOL Music family.”

MetroLyrics.com will continue to operate as a high-quality, high-traffic song lyrics destination, with an advertising-supported revenue model and growing user base.

“MetroLyrics is the right partner for AOL Music as it looks to enhance its lyrics offering for its consumers,” said Alan Juristovski, MetroLeap Media co-founder and CEO. “Our unique focus is on building a song lyrics community and has resulted in our standing as the most popular lyrics website in all of Canada, seventh most popular music destination in the world, and now lyrics partner to AOL Music. Our growing user base and strategic partnership with AOL Music stands us apart as one of the strongest advertising platforms for reaching music fans.”

MetroLyrics is the top trusted source for reliable and up-to-date lyric content worldwide. It licenses Gracenote’s database to provide hundreds of thousands of lyrics from more than 16,000 artists, which continues to grow daily as new music is released. With more than 31 million unique monthly visitors, more than 100 million monthly page views, and more than 520,000 registered users, MetroLyrics receives more traffic than many of the best-known sites in the music industry³.

AOL Music, part of the AOL MediaGlow division, <http://www.mediaglow.com>, is the Internet's most trafficked music site with more than 22 million unique visitors per month⁴ providing music fans with unparalleled access to artist videos, songs, photos, news and lyrics. AOL Music's network of sites includes Spinner.com, TheBoot.com, TheBoombox.com, TourTracker.com, and NoiseCreep.com and it is home to some of the Web's most popular original series including AOL Sessions and The Interface. AOL Music is part of AOL's entertainment channels that include Moviefone, AOL Television, BlackVoices, Asylum, and Urlesque.
